

Center for Teaching, Learning, and Technology (CTLT)

CTLT works to develop and sustain transformative teaching and learning environments at UWF with a commitment to quality support, collaborative partnerships, and innovative use of technology.

We Are Helpers

The CTLT is a centralized physical and virtual space that supports a culture of teaching, helps faculty identify and address problems, provides workshops and training, and collaborates with other campus units to help faculty meet their professional development goals and needs.

We are Trailblazers

To help advance UWF's mission, the CTLT informs and advocates for the use of evidence-based teaching practices that can be used in various teaching modalities. The CTLT is a catalyst for change, implementing strategies to improve its effectiveness and efficiencies, encouraging pilot projects to address issues that may scale to a larger divisional context, and anticipating and actively participating when there is a need for the institution to pivot to ensure continued student and faculty success.
